PENDANTS & LAMPS

"LAYERS OF LIGHT"

At Lightvault we often use the term "layering" when referring to lighting design. In more practical terms, you can view light layers as describing the different functional categories of light:

- Ambient light refers to the general fill light that is necessary to function in a space. It's source can be from any one or more of the various strands of lighting – recessed downlights, track spots, pendants etc.
- Task lighting is used in areas where specific tasks are performed with the main purpose of providing illumination for those functions. Examples include dedicated downlights over kitchen island units, under cabinet strip lighting for countertops or freestanding lamps for armchair reading.
- Accent lighting is used to highlight certain features or elements within a space. Wallwash downlights, pictures lights and directional wall lights are extensively used.
- Decorative lighting refers to the lighting fixtures themselves rather than what the light is being used for. Both large pendant shades & chandeliers made from new & eclectic materials exemplify this whilst adding to the overall aesthetic of the design.

The key point about layers of light is that most successful home lighting plans use more than one layer. Our design team advocate using several because they enhance the feel of the room, offer flexibility in setting mood and generally make for better illumination for how the space is used.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

Interior lighting should be one of the key elements when considering the design of your project. Good lighting design stems from having the right luminaires, which must be in harmony with how the space will be used and proper utilisation of lighting controls. LED lighting is to the forefront of all our lighting designs, utilising its energy saving and long lifetime properties.

BRING THE OUTSIDE INTO VIEW

Create a beautiful Outdoor space with exterior lighting from Lightvault. Enhance your outdoor area by using lighting as a design feature. Lighting effects such as Uplighting, Steplighting, Wall washing and accent lighting are all aspects which contribute to great outdoor lighting design. Once again at Lightvault we only use energy saving LED in all our designs for an energy saving and low maintenance experience.

- Uplighting is the most common technique and a dramatic effect which demands attention as it reverses the daylight perspective of even light from above.
- Steplighting is a functional requirement rather than a lighting technique and is best provided by small lights recessed into or mounted on a flanking wall.
- Wall-washing is an even coverage of light on a wall to define a space or create a backdrop. Even coverage usually demands that luminaires stand away from the wall.
- Accent Lighting uses directional lighting to emphasise individual plants or focal points so that they stand out within the view. The luminaire may be mounted in or on the ground, or on a structure or tree.
- Security Lighting Make your home safe & secure by using luminaires with built in dusk to dawn sensors or passive infrared detectors.
